Appendix 1: Glossary of key words/terms

Age A protected characteristic. A person belonging to a particular age (for example, 65 year olds) or a range of ages (for example 50 to 60 years of age).

Direct Discrimination Is where a person or group of people is treated less favourably than another individual or group of people because of a protected characteristic.

Direct Discrimination by Association Is where a person or group of people is treated less favourably because they associate with another person or group of people who has protected characteristics.

Direct Discrimination by Perception Is where a person or group of people is treated less favourably than another person or group of people because other people or groups of people think they have a protected characteristic.

Disability A protected characteristic. A person has a disability if she or he has a physical or mental impairment which has a substantial long term and adverse effect of the person's ability to carry out normal everyday activities. Long term means that the disability has lasted or is likely to last for at least twelve months. Substantial means more than minor or trivial.

Diversity Diversity is concerned with acknowledging, respecting and valuing differences between individuals and groups of people.

Equality Equality is about ensuring that people are treated fairly and given equal opportunities. Equality is not about treating everyone in the same way. Equality is about ensuring that different individuals and groups have their needs met in appropriate ways. Equality offers a framework that enables opportunity, access, participation and contribution that is fair and inclusive.

Gender Reassignment A protected characteristic. This is the process of transitioning from one gender to another and is a personal process, rather than a medical process (it does not require someone to undergo medical treatment to be protected). Transsexual refers to a person who has the protected characteristic of gender reassignment. It is important not to confuse gender reassignment with sexual orientation. A transsexual person can be a gay man, lesbian, heterosexual or bisexual.

Equality Impact Assessment Is a process whereby a policy, procedure or practice is reviewed, and if necessary amended, to ensure that it does not discriminate against any person or group of people with a protected characteristic.

Harassment Is where a person or group of people behave in such a way that their conduct has the purpose or effect of creating an environment that is hostile, degrading, humiliating or intimidating.

Indirect Discrimination A rule or policy that applies to everyone and as a consequence disadvantages people or groups of people with protected characteristics.

Marriage and Civil Partnership A protected characteristic. Marriage is a legal union between a man and a woman, a man and a man, and a woman and a woman. Same sex couple can also have their relationship legally recognized as a civil partnership. Civil partners must be treated the same as married couples on a wide range of legal matters.

Positive Action Positive action means offering targeted assistance to people so that they can take full and equal advantage of particular opportunities. Positive action means taking steps to ensure that all groups of people have equal opportunity of access to, for example, the School's services and facilities.

Pregnancy and Maternity A protected characteristic. Pregnancy is the condition of being pregnant or expecting a baby. Maternity refers to the period after birth and is linked to maternity leave in the employment context. In the non-work context, protection against maternity discrimination is for twenty six weeks after giving birth and this includes treating a woman unfavourably because she is breastfeeding.

Protected Characteristics Protected characteristics are definitions for groups of people given protection under the Equality Act 2010. Protected characteristics are age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion, and belief, and sex and sexual orientation.

Race A protected characteristic. Race refers to a group of people defined by their race, colour, nationality (including citizenship) and ethnic or national origins.

Reasonable Adjustment The duty to make reasonable adjustment is made up of three requirements. For providers of education these requirements are to take reasonable steps to:

- (i) Avoid the substantial disadvantage where a provision, criterion or practice puts disabled students at a substantial disadvantage compared to students who are not disabled.
- (ii) Remove or alter a physical feature or provide a reasonable means of avoiding such a feature where it puts disabled students at a substantial disadvantage compared to students who are not disabled.
- (iii) Provide an auxiliary aid where disabled students would, but for the provision of such an auxiliary aid, be put at a substantial disadvantage compared to students who are not disabled.

Religion or belief A protected characteristic. Religion means any religion or a lack of religion. A religion need not be mainstream or well-known to gain protection as a religion. A religion must have a clear structure and belief system. Belief system means any religious or philosophical belief and includes lack of belief. A belief should affect your life choices or the way you live for it to be included in the definition.

Sex A protected characteristic. A male or a female.

Sexual Orientation A protected characteristic. Sexual orientation is a person's sexual attraction to persons of the same sex (a gay man or a lesbian), persons of the opposite sex (heterosexual) or either sex (bisexual).

Victimisation Is where a person or group of people are treated less favourably because they have, for example, raised a complaint or grievance under the Equality Act 2010.

Appendix 2: Legislative Framework

The Equality Act 2010 (<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/equality-act-2010-guidance>) brought together over 116 separate pieces of legislation into one single Act. Combined they make up a new Act that provides a legal framework to protect the rights of individuals and advance equality of opportunity for all. The Act protects individuals from unfair treatment and promotes a fair and more equal society.

The nine main pieces of legislation that were merged into the Equality Act 2010 were:

- The Equal Pay Act 1970
- The Sex Discrimination Act 1975
- The Race Relations Act 1976
- The Disability Discrimination Act 1995
- The Employment Equality (Religion or Belief) Regulations 2003

The Employment Equality (Sexual Orientation) Regulations 2003
The Employment Equality (Age) Regulations 2006
The Equality Act 2006, Part 2
The Equality Act (Sexual Orientation) Regulations 2007

Protected Characteristics are definitions for groups of people given protection under the Equality Act 2010.

Appendix 3: Examples of Discrimination, Harassment and Victimisation

(a) Example of direct discrimination

A providing higher education programmes rejects a prospective male student's application to a childcare programme of study because the Admissions Tutor does not think it appropriate for a male to be working with young children.

This would constitute unlawful discrimination on the grounds of the protected characteristic of sex.

(b) Example of direct discrimination by association

Janet applies to a language class and discloses to the tutor that her boyfriend is Jewish, although she is not. The tutor then tells Janet that he has made a mistake and that the class is actually full. Later, Janet finds out that others have been allowed to join the language class after she was refused entry.

The tutor's conduct is likely to amount to direct discrimination by association because of religion or belief as a result of Jane's association with her Jewish boyfriend.

(c) Example of direct discrimination by perception

John, a landlord, advertises a flat to rent in a local paper and Peter meets John to view the flat and find out further details. Jason assumes that Peter is gay because of his mannerisms, voice and style of dress. As John does not want to rent his property to a gay man, he informs Peter that the flat is no longer available.

This is indirect discrimination because of sexual orientation due to Jason's perception that Peter is a gay man.

(d) Example of indirect discrimination

In a neighbourhood that includes a large Muslim community, a local community group provides lunch for elderly people but they say that because the supplier cannot provide Halal meals they are unable to provide meals for Muslim customers. The policy not to supply Halal meals would disadvantage Muslim people in particular.

The community's group policy not to supply Halal meals is unlikely to be justifiable since they could simply seek and alternative supplier that could supply Halal meals.

(e) Example of Harassment

A member of staff makes a derogatory remark about a student going through gender reassignment. Another member of staff finds the first member of staff's remark offensive.

The member of staff's derogatory remark would constitute harassment.

(f) Example of victimisation

An individual ran a training seminar for unemployed people to help them prepare their CVs. Mohammed, a Muslim delegate attending the seminar, wrote to complain that he was not excused from part of the seminar to attend afternoon prayers. The next time Mohammed applied to attend a follow up seminar he was told that there were no places left, but later found out that his friend had been given a place, even though he had applied after Mohammed.

Mohammed had been victimized because he had made a complaint related to his religion.

(g) Example of disability discrimination

A student diagnosed with autism often speaks out of turn during tutorials, which can create a disruptive atmosphere for the tutor and other students. Because of his behavior the student with autism is asked not to attend tutorials in future.

This is likely to constitute discrimination arising from disability.
